WILL STARVE THEM.

This week the silver question will be sattled if Voorhees does not show the white flag when the lines of battle are drawn up. The country has had a more or less charming exhibition of senatorial dignity extending over several weeks, and it is now in order that the curtain be rung down. Voorhees has noticed a resulution for Wednesday morning providing for a continuous session of the senatorial Lime Kiln club. He has asked the country to notice that he has noticed the resolution and the country has done so. What will Voorbees do? That's the question. Judged by his recent acts, when the time comes for introducing his resolution, he will take refuge behind some convenient "expedient" to postpone his promised decisive move. And if he should act promptly what then? Beyond cavil the anti-repealers would talk themselves black in the face before yielding to a motion to consider the previous question. It will be a catch as catch can test of endurance, The anti-repealers will go into the struggle with the advantage on their side. Their wind is better, Stewart, Teller and Peffer can divide the time and so measure their powers that Voorhees will be reduced to a skeleton before must exert the strength of their forces to apply cloture or move the previous question. That can be done without giving the country an exhibition of fasting. It can be done today as well as Wednesday, or at the end of the fast. The idea of starving a minority into submission is repugnant. The disgrace would outlive the falsehoods charged up against the silver legislation of 1872. It will be to the everlasting disgrace of the senate to choke and lash the minority when the same result can be achieved on an open and fearless

STARTLING STATISTICS.

Now that we are just emerging from a period of unprecedented commercial prastration it will not be amiss to submit a statement showing the tremendous shrinkage in labor, trade and wages incident to the squeeze we have expesismost. The American Economist has just completed a census of American industries which reveals the astounding fact that in less than one year's time there has been a shrinkage of tDig per cent in weekly wages paid and 61 per cent in the number of men employed. The Economist bases its inquiries on the work suring November 5, 1892, and the week ending September 2, 1803. These weeks were selected for comparison bevames the first mentioned was the last work prior to the election of Cleveland and the last mentioned is a week in which industrial activity is normally the most sizet. The following interesting, if antindeed, startling exhibit is declayed from the voluminous data comprising the replies to queezes send out to reliable

Hands employed it that to per cont 10.75 per cent Values of toute, 100 per cent 10.75 per cent Labor employed at per cent Decrease

$10.56 This remarkable showing serves to give a fairly comprehensive idea of the great "change" for which our democrat friends clamored so lustily one year ago. The arbibit for Michigan is incomplete for it falls to include the furniture industry. With the 4,000 nile furniture makers of this town omitted the showing will V very disappointing to the Vigilant for the state is as follows -

Workly Wagne Sict, 501, 58 Blands Employed 10,847 $20,417,29

When one grasps the full significance of those figures he must be convinced that the good old democrat times" are not so indisposable to our prosperity as we were swared they would be. It must also convince the most skeptical that the prosperity secured by a protective tariff he most flutitions but alarmingly real and the divorce market remains buoyant. tangible. We have passed through the ersolid period and we are now on the greed and it is not because of democracy but in spite of it.

BUSINESS IS BETTER.

Heary Claws says that signs of recovmultiplying daily and that the worst is over. His resourcing statement is bureau cut in the rescription of many mile and tories which have twee tille for weeks, emperor's mind.

The recovery is a gradual one. Industry is not resumed with a flash and flare, but in nearly every case unit so many men are returned to work as may be cussary to meet immediate demands. This slow recovery is more desirable than a sudden start to be followed by as andden an ending. Here at home the manufacturers are proceeding with great caution. It is easier to give more men places than it is to reduce the number already employed. After awhile the demand for more workmen will be a solid and continuing one. To those who are yet idle the prospect of work is brightening. Still no false hopes should be entertained. It may be that no general resumption will take place until spring but there are substantial reasons for believing that when the senate ceases to juggle with the silver question there will be a steady return to activity in all branches of trade. Mr. Clews believes that manufacturers will hasten to open their shops so as to take advantage of an average reduction of ten per cent in wages. This reduction is a con-siderable factor in shaping the future offey of manufacturors but if the ince were as good as they were before the stringency came manufacturers would be quick to restore the old rate of wages. With a reduction in cost of manufacture, a reduction in price of the product is inevitable, so that the manufacturers would peither gain nor lose by the difference. Mr. Clews pooh poohs the fear of tariff tinkering, asserting that the revenue demands forbid [any reduction of great magnitude.

Ir is gratifying to know that despite the financial stringency, the market price of female trust and confidence has not dropped a single point. Indeed, there is a strong upward tendency in the vicinity of Boston. Masculine affection, given in consideration of trust and confidence is worth something like $40,000 apiece there, regardless of age. Mrs. Van Houten has just obtained that verdict in a breach of promise suit against Asa P. Morse, and Asa has seen 73 summers blossom and fade. In Bostop it is about $40,000 better to have loved and lost than never to have loved

DETROIT is gaining an unenviable reputation as a home for crooks. A few months ago the wholesale poisoner Meyer was discovered quietly domiciled on a resident street. Only a few days ago De France, one of the most consummate swindlers ever arrested, was found living in a veritable palace and moving in the best society of the City of the Straits. As between a graveyard and Detroit as a place of retreat, the discriminating fugitive from justice seems to prefer the latter. He is less likely to be disturbed.

Our democrat brethren are sorely distressed. The manner in which federal patronage has been distributed in this district is highly displeasing to them. They are in revolt against the Tuesday evening their indignation will find expression in a public meeting to be hels in the Jefferson club rooms. It is not likely that G. C. or D. D. will tremble at the explosion of their choler but it will give the unterrified a vent for their chagrin.

ADVERSITY is a medicine which people are rather fond of recommending indiscriminately as a panacea for their neighborn Like other medicines, it only agrees with certain constitutions. There are nerves which it braces and there are other nerves which it utterly shatters.

His highness, the Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria, will sail for home today. He declares that he has enjoyed his visit to America very much, and if he doesn't write any reminiscences of his trip, America will reciprocate by hoping that he had a delightful time.

WHEN Chicago saloonkeepers begin to talk about closing their places of business today, the outsider can obtain an idea of how terribly earnest the city is in its resolve to celebrate Chicago day

Ir is doubtful if the double session system will hasten the senate's adjournment. The past record of the distinguished body proves that it is talking by the day and not by the job.

Tors will be a bad winter for hereay. All the good brethren are too busy punching holes in the arguments presented by the Huddhist priests at the religious congress.

There was thinking room only in The Grand last evening. The attraction that drew so many persons away from the threads and other piaces was Pauline Batcheller and her company of buriesquers. Fauline has not changed greatly. The flight of years may have wrinkled her chastic fentures and bestrank her old time opulence of tending and sines, but she thashes before the footlights in a cute dress of blue, wearing a shock of golden curis, which make her a girl again just for the night. She's a rollicking, effer-vescent juities, is thefair Panine, and she is just as lovable as she would be if only 16 instead of 17. There is one bright spot in the whirligg of nonsense that goes to make the program and that is the "Capital vs Labor" sketch by Kaye and Henry. All else is whimsical and frivolous. But that's what a galaxy of buxom girls and a quartet of rough and frivolous. But that's what a galaxy of humon girls and a quartet of rough and tumble comedians are gathered together for, isn't it? There's a bewildering display of female loveliness and a modicum of furny things in the bill prepared for this season. But it is all so strikingly familiar to the regular patrons whose memories are acute that one is tempted to rate the show as an average one-neither shockingly good nor exquisitely bud. It will probably play to good business all the week.

Pretty statues, lively songs, active athletics, marvelous contortions and a hillarious potpouri of frolicsome specialties are the ingredients which flaz and hubble in the opening extravaganza, "The Midway Plaisance," which greeted a large audience at Smith's last evening. After the "Plaisance" comes a brief but excellent olio. Harry and Clarence opened it with a thunderboli exhibition of skill and muscle in acrobatic feats. Winsome little Gypsy Earle captures lower and upper tiers in a neatly executed song and dance. Then comes the marvelous prodigy, Norman the frog man, whose grotesque twistings and bendings are mysteriously wonderful. Lively and Pursell offer a sketch which is fairly amusing. Hazel Earle executes Lively and Pursell offer a sketch which is fairly amusing. Hazel Earle executes a serpentine dance with a gracefulness that is poetry of motion. Then James Prince and Oscar Cole appear in a refined exhibition of dancing. The Brown Brothers acknowledged champions of the horizontal bar, perform some very clever acts. Their leaps and undershots are thrillingly reckiess. Probably the most thoroughly artistic trapezists in the country are the Earle sisters. Their wonderful drops and the superb ease with which they make quick and gravity-defying changes from bar to bar are without parallel in that particular branch of the profession. They were given a tumultiprofession. They were given a tumulti-ous recall last evening which of itself is best evidence of the superiority of their work. Usual matinee all week.

Tonight The Powers will be lighted for Russell's confedians in a revised or world's fair edition of "The City Directory." Amelia Glover and Wills P. Sweetnam are in the cast.

Thursday and Friday nights "The Silver King" will be seen at The Powers. Tonight the great charity band con cert and ball in Lockerby hall.

Books and Magazines.

Albion W. Tourgee is out with a new historical novel "Out of the Sunset Sea." which, unlike his previous powerful works, does not deal with the negro question, but the discovery of America by Columbus. The hero, Arthur Lake, is a son of the prime minister of Henry VI, and passes through startling adventures in both Spain and the new world before his return to Albion. The treatment is bold, the descriptions vivid and the delicate romance running through it stamps Judge Tourgee as a writer of great versatility, and his success in this new field of fiction is certain to surpass his previous efforts. "Out of the Sun-set Sea" is from the press of Merrill & Baker and is for sale by Eaton & Lyon,
